

President's Message (2012-2013)

As Lauda Musicam of Atlanta approaches its third season we can be proud of the group's accomplishments in the past concert seasons. Much of our success is due to the enthusiasm, talent and financial support of each member of our group. It is perhaps an understatement to say that very little of this would have been possible without the talents, time and effort of our director, Jody Miller. We are also very fortunate to have the cooperation and support of Saint Bartholomew's Episcopal Church and its facilities.

One of the most encouraging signs of our success is the increase of small groups within LMA who have come together for the joy and reward of playing renaissance and other styles of music.

By now Jody Miller has planned the musical theme of our 2012-2013-concert season. Uncommon Practice will be bringing their talents to the coming season as well. There is also a plan to prepare an updated inventory of instruments that LMA owns for those who wish to borrow one. We are very fortunate to have received through donations and purchases such an extensive collection of replica instruments. There may be instruments for sale or donation after the inventory is complete.

I look forward to another rewarding season of music and friendship with all the members of Lauda Musicam of Atlanta. I am sure it will be our best yet.

Thom Culbreth
President
